

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE:

An LED lighting system is disclosed. The lighting system includes means to calibrate the light temperature and intensity between multiple modules in one system, or to calibrate the light temperature and intensity against a known reference standard. The lighting system may be used in many illumination applications, including the cabin sections of aircraft and watercraft.